SUMMARY

Over 10 years of experience, diligent and disciplined social protection specialist/economist. Extensive expertise in international development and policy analysis, honed through pivotal roles at the ILO, the World Bank, and Harvard University's David Rockefeller Center (DRCLAS). Focusing on labour market, statistical analysis, poverty mitigation, and policy evaluation across countries from the Global South, I've been part of initiatives to implement public policy, enhance data quality, and forge strategic partnerships with government agencies. Fluent in R, with a strong foundation in advanced econometrics, tax/fiscal policy, household surveys, social assistance, living wage, and climate resilience strategies. PhD in Political Science at the University of São Paulo.
